From the LONDON GAZETTE.
WHITEHALL, June 18.

Extract of a letter from Major Hector Munro, commanding in chief his Majesty's and the East-India Company's troops at Patna, to the Earl of Sandwich, dated at the camp at Buxar, the 26th of October, 1764, received the 18th inst.

I HAVE the pleasure to acquaint your Lordship that his Majesty's troops and the India company's, which I have the honour to command, have gained a compleat victory over the King and Vizier of Indostan, the twenty-third of this month. Their army consisted of 50,000 men at least. Inclosed I have the honour to send your Lordship a return of ours: They had 6000 men killed on the field of battle; and we took 130 pieces of cannon from them, besides several stores of different kinds. On the 22d I encamped so near the enemy's encampment, as to be just out of the range of their shot. The morning of the action, at day-light, I went out with some of the principal officers to reconnoitre their situation, intending to attack them the following day; but finding their whole army under arms, returned to camp, ordered in our advanced posts and grand guards, the drums to beat to arms, and in less than twenty minutes after the line of battle was formed, having made my disposition for it the day before. They began to cannonade us at nine o'clock in the morning, and half an hour after, the action became general. We had a morass in our front, which prevented our moving forward for some time; by which means the number of cannon they had, and which were well levelled, and equally well disposed of, galled us very much. I was forced to order a battalion of Seapoys, with one gun, from the right of the first line, to move forward to silence one of their batteries which played upon our flank; and obliged to support it by another battalion from the second line, which had the desired effect. I then ordered both the lines to face to the right, and keep marching, in order to clear the left wing of the morass; and when done, face to our former front, the right wing wheeling up to the left, to clear a tope, or small wood that was upon our right; than the first line moved forward, keeping a very brisk cannonade. I sent orders to Major Pemble, who commanded the second line, to face it to the right about, and follow the first; but that officer saw the propriety of that movement so soon, that he began to put it in execution before he received my order. Immediately after, both lines pushed forward with so much ardour and resolution, at which time the small arms began, that the enemy soon after began to give way; and five minutes before twelve, their whole army was put to flight. Give me leave, my Lord, to intreat your Lordship may be pleased to acquaint his Majesty with the gallant behaviour of the troops in general: And I beg leave particularly to recommend Capt. Charles Gordon, of the 84th regiment, my Aid-de Camp, for his brave and spirited behaviour. Your Lordship will excuse me, if, at the same time, I wish Major Pemble might be recommended to the chairman and court of directors, for his bravery and good conduct. Both these officers had their horses shot under them in the action. I do myself the honour to inclose to your Lordship, a list of our killed, wounded, and missing. I have the honour to be, &c.

HECTOR MUNRO.

Return of the troops present in the above action.

His Majesty's 84th, 89th, and 98th regiments; Marines; Bengal Battalion; and Bombay Detachment, consisting, in the whole, of 5 Majors, 15 Captains, 18 Lieutenants, 18 Ensigns, 3 Adjutants, 3 Quarter-Masters, 5 Surgeons, 4 four Surgeons-Mates, 68 Sergeants, 51 Drummers, 746 Rank and File.

Also eight battalions of Seapoys commanded by European and Black Officers.

Likewise artillery, Black Cavalry, and European ditto.

Total of Europeans killed, wounded, and missing. One Lieutenant, one Ensign, five serjeants, 25 Rank and File, killed. One Captain, three Lieutenants, two Ensigns, 11 Serjeants, 30 Rank and File, wounded.

667 Seapoys were killed, wounded, or missing.

Mogul Cavalry, 47 killed, 22 wounded, and 112 Horses killed.

LIST of the Officers killed and wounded.

KILLED.—Lieut. Spilbury, of his Majesty's 98th regiment.—Ensign Jn. Thomson of the Company's battalion.—Edw. Butley, private, of his Majesty's 98 reg. —Edw. Trotter, ditto, of his Majesty's Marines.

WOUNDED.—Capt. Crofton, of his Majesty's 98th regiment.—Lieut. John Digges, of the artillery.—Lieut. Charles Menzie, of the Cavalry.—Lieut. Geo. Thomson, of the Bengal battalion.—Ensign Robert Shand, of the Seapoys.—Thomas Harvey, and Robert Stevenson, private of his Majesty's 98th regiment.—Edward Lory, Serjeant of Marines.

East-India House, June 15, 1765.

The East-India company, by their ship Devonshire, arrived yesterday off Dover, have received advices from the President and Council in Bengal, dated the 26th of November last, that the troops under the command of Major Munro, having advanced towards the army commanded by the King Shah Aulum, (late Shah Zadah) and Sujah Dowlah, Nabob of Oude, who waited with their whole force, and a number of artillery, at Buxar, about 100 miles beyond Patna, the armies came to a general engagement on the 23d of October, and the English troops gained the most compleat victory possible. The army fled across the Carumnassa with the utmost precipitation, leaving their whole camp standing, and about 130 pieces of cannon.

LONDON, June 28.

By letters from Jamaica, we are informed, that Mr. P. C. a merchant in Spanish Town, having in December last, caused a writ of vendition exponas to be executed on the coach-horses of Mr. O. a member of the assembly, for a debt of considerable standing, that body at their next meeting, resolved, that the deputy marshal, for ordering the writ to be executed, and Mr. P. C. and one W. the marshal's man, for endeavouring to execute, should be taken into custody of their messenger. Their prisoners applied to the governor, as chancellor, for their habeas corpus, which his excellency granted, and which he could not refuse without forfeiting at least 1000 l. but in order to quash the whole affair, prudently desired the immediate attendance of the whole house, and after passing the bills that were ready, prorogued them till the next day, Dec. 19. As soon as the house then met, they ordered the same persons to be again taken into custody, for violation of their privileges. The captives petitioned for and obtained their habeas a second time; and the messenger of the assembly bringing them before the governor, he was pleased to hear them next day by their counsel. After three gentlemen of the long robe had expatiated upon the subject of privilege, his excellency declared, that it did not appear, from the laws of Great-Britain, or from those of Jamaica, that any member of the assembly was intitled to protection, during the session, except in his person only, and that therefore the confinement of the prisoners was illegal; upon which they were again set at liberty. This so inflamed the members of the assembly, that at their next meeting, they voted the governor's proceedings a violation of the rights and liberties of the house, &c. and resolved that a remonstrance of his conduct should be laid before his Majesty; notwithstanding they had published to the world, about two months before, that his measures were wise and prudent. His excellency, next morning, notified their prorogation, and soon afterwards, by advice of the privy council, discharged them. A new assembly having met in March, 1765, the governor, in his speech, recommended to them to conduct such business as came before them with that temper, as might bring the sessions to a speedy and happy conclusion, &c. The representatives, in their address, resumed the subject of privilege, and desired that his excellency's declaration against them might be expunged from the registry of the court of chancery. The governor in his reply, among other things, told them, that their application was of so extraordinary nature, that it was difficult to give it that answer it deserved; that they could not seriously propose that he should obliterate a determination made by himself, or that they were ignorant that a judge, who should expunge a record of an event in which he presided, would deservedly incur the highest censure; that he had endeavours, to promote that peace they [illegible]; and therefore prorogued them to the [illegible] inst.

[illegible]as Pike,

TAKES this opportunity of returning [illegible] or their past favours; and can only add that he will make it his chief study to merit a continuance of them by a particular care and assiduity of instructing his pupils in the real and true method of DANCING.

Ladies or Gentlemen may be instructed very expeditiously on moderate terms in ORCHESOGRAPHY, (or the art of dancing by characters and demonstrative figures, wherein the whole art is explained with complete tables of all the steps used in dancing); the utility of which method is very well known in Europe, as they are thereby enabled to detect all pretenders to that science.

He continues to teach dancing at his long room, in the Orange garden, Tradd-street, on Thursdays and Saturdays for his day-scholars.

He intends opening the school for teaching the small sword on Friday the 20th instant, where attendance will be given every morning from seven to nine o' clock at the same places; where grown gentlemen are instructed in dancing every evening after six o' clock.

He attends the boarding schools on Mondays Wednesdays and Fridays.

N. B. The ball is fixed for the latter end of November.
